Make Vrndavana/That is My Desire comprises notes made after reading the 37 volumes of Srila Prabhupada's published conversations a number of times over a period of years.

Its current form is, in effect, a Table of Contents with nearly 5,000 hyperlinks to the corresponding quotes selected from those volumes in the main document known as va.doc (Conversation Quotes).

One can click on any point of interest in that table to immediately access the appropriate quote.

To further identify the quote within the context of the entire conversation one can very quickly search "The Complete Works of Srila Prabhupada."

One can do that from either the table (Make Vrndavana) or the conversation quotes in the main document (va.doc/ Conversation Quotes).

In the top right-hand corner of any conversation quote in the main document is a six-digit number called the record number. Note it down. Open "Folders", then "SP", then "SP" with the arrow pointing inwards from the bottom left hand corner (shortcut to C.W. S. P.). This should open up the program. (Windows 2000 and X P operating systems may display a different icon for the shortcut: experiment to find the right one). Select "Search" from the top menu, then "Go To" and type the record number in the dialog box that opens up. Press Enter. Similarly, the record numbers are in the table (Make Vrndavana/That is My Desire) and can be referenced from there. Sometimes one may find two numbers in the same cell. The one hyperlinked (in blue, usually the smallest of the two numbers) generally refers to the beginning of the quote. The other one will refer to the context somewhere within the quote.

All these numbers have been entered manually. Most are accurate, a few may not correspond. Scroll up and down in the quote to find the exact statement in the quote.

It is a good idea to keep the program C. W. S. P. open on the taskbar for handy reference while researching the above documents.

If one is fortunate enough to possess the 37 volume series of Srila Prabhupada's conversations, the appropriate page numbers for the quote can be found in the column "Conv Bks" of the table. It would therefore be an excellent idea to print out the 101 pages of the table to use for yourself in conjunction with the books. You could even make your own notes in the table to help you remember your points of interest in the corresponding quotes. In this way one could tailor-make an improved handy referencing index for preaching work, updating it the more one reads the conversations. To print out a hard copy, use the file "Book Make Vrndavana/That is My Desire" (it's more correct and is free from the distraction of hyperlink underlining etc.). To individually print out a copy of the lot (Make Vrndavana plus the main document of the conversation quotes, va.doc), which comprises 1,600 pages, would be expensive (around AUS$100). The laxmi might be better employed pooled together to make a print run. I am therefore requesting all those interested in the subject matter and who would like to see Srila Prabhupada's desires fulfilled, their own and everyone else's please send a contribution towards the cost of printing this essential document to address the urgent needs of the day. Contributors will be acknowledged and sent a copy. It is estimated that an initial print run would be of the order of AUS $15,000, Someone would do a great service to bear the entire cost as at least every disciple of His Divine Grace should have one. Please send contributions to L van Es 159 Cessnock Rd., Weston 2326 Australia.

It is hoped that the above documents will inspire devotees to delve into the conversation books with greater interest and absorption in order to derive a deeper understanding of the desire and mood of His Divine Grace, strengthen themselves and more progressively introduce the Krishna consciousness movement.
